The Iron Springs Chateau presents
“What Became of Nona Jane...or...Brown Gravy Blues”

The Iron Springs Chateau is excited to announce the opening of “What Became of Nona Jane...or...Brown Gravy Blues”, a hilarious southern melodrama written in collaboration by local playwrights William Clifton and Charles Hall. This show opens on Friday, February 10, 2017.

“What Became of Nona Jane?...OR...Brown Gravy Blues” is set in Skeeter Holler where Nona Jane Johnson has been found dead on her kitchen floor under mysterious circumstances. Her son, Jim Bob, has inherited his mama’s famous, county fair winning, brown gravy recipe. The sheriff is following all of the clues, but who did it? Sweet Joyce Ann’s ribbon was found at the crime scene, but Earline was heard sayin’ she’d kill for that gravy recipe, Henry was seen in the yard with a weapon and Lou May, well she’s just plain ole mean. Besides, who’s gonna win the county fair blue ribbon this year? You’re sure to enjoy this inside look at the funny side of southern charm and the county fair politics.

As always, audience participation makes for a hilarious adventure where you’ll boo the villainess, cheer your hero, and oooh and ahhhh your lovely heroine. The show is directed by William Clifton and Lori Adams-Miller, Musical direction by Mark Arnest, Costumes by Stephanie Bradley and choreography by Daisya Downen, Jolene Howard, Lori Adams-Miller and Rebekah Ratterree. This awesome cast has Kevin Morgan, Alicia Cuevas, Craig Howard, Daisya Downen, Alexandra (Alex) DeLong and Joseph Woodford.

The melodrama is followed by a sing-along intermission led by the beautiful and talented Jolene Howard, and then the cast returns for our fun filled “Surf’s Up” Themed Olio with vacation and beach songs, dances and jokes!

Reservations can be made by phone at (719) 685-5104 or by email at info@ironspringschateau.com. Special rates are available for seniors (62+), military and groups of 10 or more.
